

Cathryn McGill

Cathy McGill is a member of a class of traveling poets, musicians, and storytellers who maintain a tradition of oral history in parts of West Africa. In the African tradition of griot, Cathryn is a storyteller who shares stories in word and song while building, growing, energizing, and engaging communities by creating positive change. Cathryn has worked extensively with schools in New Mexico and other areas to introduce young people to the joy of performing arts.

