

Kathryn Miller

Kathryn Miller, Ph.D. PCC is a Sr. Partner with the Design Training Collaborative, a training and consulting firm that specializes in coaching, organization development, and leadership development. Drawing from more than twenty years of training and management experience she is committed to thoughtful and smart change; building commitment; developing individual and organizational accountabilities; and practicing influence. These provide the foundation for her consulting. Currently, her coaching and consulting focuses on development of individuals and organizations that expand and create opportunities for bettering individual lives, their organizations and our world.