

Dr. Jimmy Snyder

Dr. Jimmy Snyder PhD, (he/him) is a citizen of the Kickapoo Tribe in Kansas. He is the Academic Data Specialist & Instructional Coordinator at Santa Fe Indian School. Prior to that, he served as an Assistant Clinical Professor and Assistant Director for the Institute for Native-serving Educators (INE) at Northern Arizona University, where he provided collaborative leadership for INE programs, as well as served as Anchor Faculty for INE's newest initiative entitled, Preparing Indigenous Teachers for Arizona Schools (PITAS). He has taught social studies on the Kickapoo reservation in Kansas, the Navajo Nation in New Mexico, and has years of experience working on a tribal college campus. Research interests and areas of expertise include Indigenous education, philosophy, and history, settler colonial theory, Indigenous feminism, athletic coaching, social studies education, curriculum development, and teacher education.